Land Arts of the American West at the Texas Tech University College of Architecture is a transdisciplinary field program examining the evolutionary interaction between human actions and landscape formation. The itinerary includes nearly six thousand miles of overland travel and camping for two months to experience major land art monuments and sites to expand our understanding of human land interactions.

The exhibition culminates the 2017 field season presenting documents and constructions by Elmer Guerrero Arrieta, Lyza Baum, Caroline Carney, K. Flint, R. Ilia Reyes, Nicolle LaMere, and Aida Salan Sierra.
